Annual Investment Tax Records Worksheet

One place to collect what you need at tax time: cost basis, income, tax withheld abroad and exchange rates. Based on the MarketAI Academy tax lessons.

Tax year: _____ Country of tax residence: _____

1. Sales (for capital gains)

Investment / ticker	Account	Buy date	Qty	Cost incl. fees	FX rate on buy	Sell date	Proceeds after fees	FX rate on sale	Gain / loss in home currency	Matching method
Example: World ETF	Broker A	2024-03-04	10	1,005.00 USD		2026-06-10	1,180.00 USD			FIFO / average

Many countries calculate gains in your home currency, so currency moves alone can create a gain or loss. If you bought the same fund several times, check which matching rule your country uses (for example average cost or first-in, first-out).

2. Dividends and interest received

Date	Investment / payer	Account	Type (dividend, interest, fund distribution)	Gross amount	Tax withheld abroad	Withholding rate	Net received	FX rate	Gross in home currency	Proof (statement / 1042-S)
2026-03-28	Example: US ETF	Broker A	Dividend	100.00 USD	15.00 USD	15%	85.00 USD			1042-S

The example withholding rate is hypothetical. Dividend tax withheld abroad may be partly creditable at home under a tax treaty, but usually only with proof, so record it here as it happens.

3. Accounts and year-end values

Account / broker	Country of the account	Currency	Value on 1 January	Value on 31 December	Deposits in the year	Withdrawals in the year	Fees paid	Must this account be declared?

Some countries tax on account value or a deemed return (for example Box 3 in the Netherlands or wealth tax in Swiss cantons), and some require you to declare overseas accounts even when no tax is due. Check your country's tax guide in the course.

4. Documents to keep

- [ ] Trade confirmations for every buy and sell (proof of cost).
- [ ] Annual statements from each broker.
- [ ] US Form 1042-S from US brokers (dividends and tax withheld).
- [ ] Fund income composition notices or reporting-fund reports, where your country needs them.
- [ ] A note of the exchange-rate source you used, applied consistently.
- [ ] Your current W-8BEN (signed date and renewal date).
- [ ] Deposit and withdrawal records, to show the source of funds.

5. Before you file

- [ ] Checked which income my country taxes and when (on receipt, on remittance, on sale, or on value).
- [ ] Checked the current thresholds and allowances on my tax authority's website.
- [ ] Totalled foreign tax withheld to claim any credit, within the limits.
- [ ] Checked whether any foreign fund I hold has special rules.
- [ ] Kept a yearly summary even in years below any threshold.
- [ ] Noted how long records must be kept in my country.
- [ ] Asked a licensed tax adviser if anything is unclear.
